

Experience Seekers

Statistical appendix

A significant and diverse proportion of urban audiences, these highly active students and recent graduates are in the early to mid-stages of their careers and regularly attend a wide variety of cultural events.

How to use this appendix

This appendix contains further details of the segment presented as graphs, charts and tables. It provides a supplement to the full segment descriptions and narrative which can be found audiencefinder.org/experience-seekers

Unless stated otherwise, data is derived from Taking Part, an annual survey of engagement across England. All data is based on the English population. New segment information and insights will be added over time, if you have any particular requests please do get in touch at research@theaudienceagency.org

Information has been presented for the English population in the following ways

Percentage	Proportion of segment that falls into a particular category, or who answered 'Yes' to a question
Index	How a response compares to the national average. 100 = pop average, 200 = double, 50 = half
Rank	The segment's position compared to other segments. '1' is highest rank, '10' is lowest rank
